SUSTAINABILITY RESEARCH AWARDS FOR STUDENTS

The Faculty of Science Sustainability Network is excited to offer ten awards of up to $2,000 each for students within the Faculty of Science to support the student's living costs. $2,000 will be awarded for a full year project that is located within a formal qualification, for example an honours dissertation or a masters project. For shorter projects up to $500 will be awarded.

Applications open 8 May and close on 29 June 2026.

Eligibility

The awards are open to applications from postgraduate students who are undertaking a research project and are enrolled (or have recently completed) in the Faculty of Science (or whose primary discipline is administered through the FoS). Supervisors with a project can identify a suitable student and encourage them to apply. Applications for small projects that are not a formal part of the student's degree or diploma programme will be considered. Preference will be given to non-doctoral students and those without an existing stipend.
