Programmes

Study Abroad

Students coming from a non-partner institution will need to apply for our study abroad programme. Students may select modules from any area as long as the module is available for that semester, the student meets all eligibility criteria (including pre-requisites), and there are no faculty restrictions. Tuition fees are payable to Queen Mary University of London.

Exchange

If Queen Mary University of London has an exchange partnership agreement with an overseas institution (European Exchange, International Exchange (IEP) and Swiss-European Mobility (SEMP) programmes), students will first need to be nominated to study abroad at Queen Mary University of London by their home institution before applying to study abroad on exchange with us. Sending institutions can nominate their exchange students by sending an email to study-abroad@qmul.ac.uk. They should then direct their nominated exchange students to apply online.

Application Dates and Deadlines

| | | |
|---|-------------|-----------------|
| | | |
| Study Abroad, European Exchange, IEP and SEMP | 31 May 2023 | 24 October 2023 |
| Arcadia Internship programme | 1 May 2023 | 1 October 2023 |

Dates can and do change. They are updated regularly on our website so please do refer to this.

Our 'Apply' webpage outlines everything your student(s) need to know in order to submit a correct application and also outlines our entry requirements. They should read this carefully before applying and should also follow our step-by-step guidelines on how to apply.

NB: Module registration for autumn/full year students and spring students is launched at the end of our application deadline so students are advised to apply in advance of the final deadline in order to complete module registration on time and to improve their chances of obtaining the modules for which they have most preference.

Semester Dates

Please review our webpage for up-to-date key programme dates.

On-Campus Housing

Unfortunately we do not open our halls of residence to European Exchange or SEMP students, but we can provide guidance to these students on how to secure suitable housing off-campus.

We cannot guarantee housing for all Associate students, but they are prioritised in this area if they are studying abroad with us from one of our non-European institutions.

Students must have accepted their offer to study abroad at Queen Mary in order to apply for on-campus housing.

Information on our residences can be found here.

Support pre-arrival and on campus

Pre-Arrival information sent to your students can be found here. We send regular 'Countdown to Queen Mary' newsletters to them, highlighting a mix of both important information and fun tips to get the best from their study abroad experience with us and in London.

Our Orientation is compulsory for all Associate students to attend; this takes place during the week before teaching begins and we outline this to all offer holders. Orientation is a great chance for your students to meet their peers, make new friends, attend our social events and meet the Global Opportunities Team. It's also a chance for them to be advised on the structural and academic set-up of life at our university and the best way to meet representatives from our various support services such as, for example, our Disability & Dyslexia Service, Advice & Counselling, Residences, and the Students' Union.
