

How to Use Property Services Design Standards and Guidelines

Introduction

The University of Auckland's Property Services Design Standards and Guidelines is available on the University's intranet and internet.

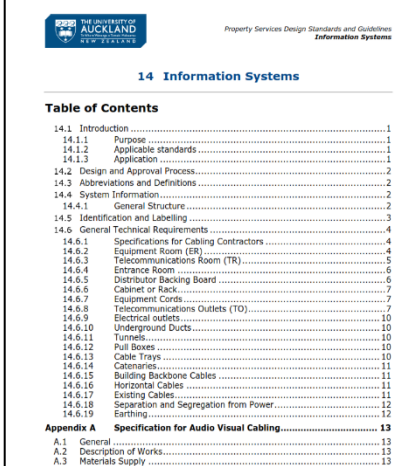

The document is split into sections. Each section is a pdf document which can either be printed or viewed online via a computer, tablet or phone.

Print

As a standard pdf document, you can either print the whole section, one particular page, or a range of pages.

Table of contents

Each section has a detailed table of contents at the front.

14 Information Systems

Table of Contents

14.1 Introduction	1
14.1.1 Purpose	1
14.1.2 Applicable standards	1
14.1.3 Application	1
14.2 Design and Approval Process	2
14.3 Abbreviations and Definitions	2
14.4 System Information	2
14.4.1 General Structure	2
14.5 Identification and Labelling	3
14.6 General Technical Requirements	4
14.6.1 Specifications for Cabling Contractors	4
14.6.2 Equipment Room (ER)	4
14.6.3 Telecommunications Room (TR)	5
14.6.4 Entrance Room	6
14.6.5 Distributor Backing Board	6
14.6.6 Cabinet or Rack	7
14.6.7 Equipment Cords	7
14.6.8 Telecommunications Outlets (TO)	7
14.6.9 Electrical outlets	10
14.6.10 Underground Ducts	10
14.6.11 Tunnels	10
14.6.12 Pull Boxes	10
14.6.13 Cable Trays	10
14.6.14 Catenaries	11
14.6.15 Building Backbone Cables	11
14.6.16 Horizontal Cables	11
14.6.17 Existing Cables	11
14.6.18 Separation and Segregation from Power	12
14.6.19 Earthing	12
Appendix A Specification for Audio Visual Cabling	13
A.1 General	13
A.2 Description of Works	13
A.3 Materials Supply	13

List of Tables
Table 1: Information Systems standards	6
Table 2: Information Systems abbreviations	8
Table 3: Specifications for Cabling Contractors	11
Table 4: Minimum outlet plate configurations by room area	15
Table 5: Copper Cable Testing Settings	37
Table 6: Distributor fields colour coding	44
Table 7: Duct colours for hazardous services	59
List of Figures
Figure 1: Integrated telecommunications cabling system	9
Figure 2: Access to the telecommunications and electrical compartments	51
Figure 3: Trunking in the furniture	51
Figure 4: ADC Krone Highband 25 Backmount	62
Figure 5: ADC Krone Profil Backmount	63

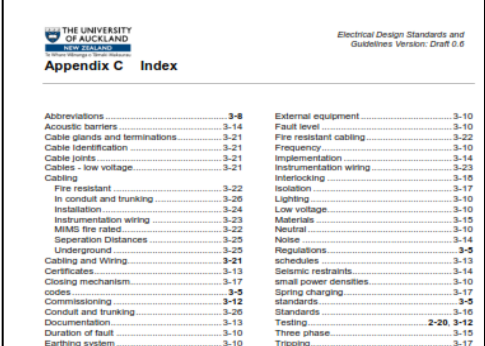

Lists of tables and figures

If you are looking for specific information and you know it was in a table or a figure, have a look at the lists of tables and figures directly below the table of contents.

Index

Each document has an index at the back so you can look up key words.

The bold entries are topic headings, so they'll have more information.

Appendix C Index

Abbreviations	3-9	External equipment	3-10
Acoustic barriers	3-14	Fault level	3-10
Cable glands and terminations	3-21	Fire resistant cabling	3-22
Cable identification	3-21	Frequency	3-10
Cable joints	3-21	Implementation	3-14
Cables - low voltage	3-21	Instrumentation wiring	3-23
Cabling		Interlocking	3-18
Fire resistant	3-22	Isolation	3-17
In conduit and trunking	3-20	Lighting	3-10
Installation	3-24	Low voltage	3-10
Instrumentation wiring	3-23	Materials	3-13
MIMS fire rated	3-22	Neutral	3-10
Separation Distances	3-20	Noise	3-14
Underground	3-20	Regulations	3-9
Cabling and Wiring	3-21	schedules	3-13
Certificates	3-13	Seismic restraints	3-14
Closing mechanism	3-17	small power densities	3-10
codes	3-9	Spring charging	3-17
Commissioning	3-12	standards	3-9
Conduit and trunking	3-20	Standards	3-10
Documentation	3-13	Testing	2-20, 3-12
Duration of fault	3-10	Three phase	3-10
Earthing system	3-10	Tripping	3-17

Online

Introduction

The pdf documents can be viewed on a computer, tablet or phone.

You can use the same tools to identify the page number and then scroll to the page:

- Table of contents
- Lists of tables and figures
- Index.

There are a few extra tools you can also use online.

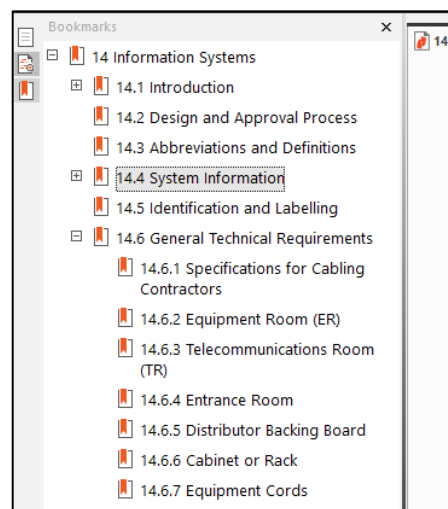

Bookmarks

Bookmarks in pdf documents are like a table of contents.

They are usually found in the top left hand corner of the document.

Depending on your device’s software you can usually drill down a heading to see headings under it (click on the + or -).

You can also click on the heading to go to it in the document.

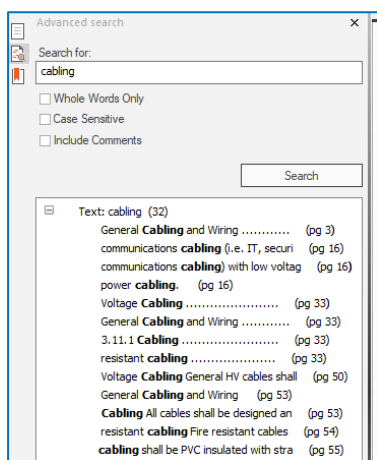

Searching

You can use your software’s search function to find specific terms/words.

Depending on your software, the search will either:

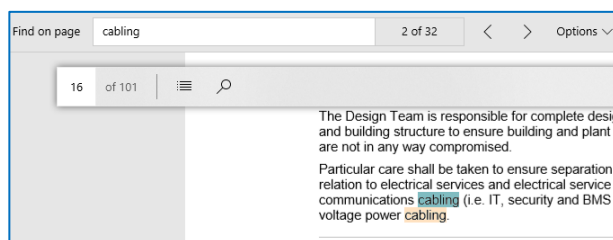

Display all occurrences of the word:

Browse through until you find the relevant entry.

Click on the entry to go to the page.

Display only the first occurrence of the word:

Keep clicking on the magnifying glass until you find what you are looking for.