

POSTGRADUATE STUDY IN PROFESSIONAL SUPERVISION

Masters Programme 2023

Master of Professional Supervision (MProfSup) and Master of Professional Supervision Practice (MProfSupPrac)

Full-time: 18 months | 2023 Semester One starts 27 February | 2023 Semester Two starts 17 July.

EDUCATION AND SOCIAL WORK

Professional Supervision is a significant cornerstone of learning, critical reflection and transformative practice.

Two masters are offered, allowing students to choose between the Master of Professional Supervision with a research aspect, and the Master of Professional Supervision Practice.

In undertaking either of these masters, you will get the opportunity to critically analyse and integrate theoretical perspectives, contemporary literature, policy and practice to grow your knowledge, skills and confidence in Professional Supervision within your professional and organisational context.

Both masters are predominantly delivered through face-to-face block-courses at Epsom Campus and some online courses and are offered in both semester one and semester two, 2023.

Graduates of the Master of Professional Supervision will have mastery of theories, models, skills and interventions in professional supervision and have a demonstrated ability to engage in independent research.

Master of Professional Supervision Practice students graduate with advanced specialist knowledge of the field and will have a demonstrated ability to apply specialist knowledge to practice in diverse clinical and cultural settings in sustaining ways.

If you are a working professional with at least three years' experience in your field of practice, enquire now to enhance your clinical and professional supervision skills.

For more information, visit or contact the University of Auckland Student Hubs where friendly staff can provide you with advice. Email studentinfo@auckland.ac.nz