Over the course of the semester, the University has been in discussions with AUSA about the feedback they have received from students regarding the ongoing challenges many are facing from the effects of Auckland's changing Alert Levels on their study.

Following its most recent Student Council meeting, AUSA posed a series of recommendations that it asked the University to consider. We have been consulting with key stakeholders across the University to assess the implications of these and to ensure we have considered the potential consequences on student learning and on the University.

Please visit the website for the University's response to AUSA recommendations for student support.

We appreciate the support that AUSA provides to students and hope that we can continue to work closely to find workable solutions to the challenges that Covid-19 has presented.
