I learned how to study autonomously in my ‘flipped learning’ Economics class. Content delivered via video gives students more time to ask teachers questions and work on practical exercises. These skills have helped me a lot at university.

Programme Delivery

Partnered with the leading university in New Zealand, UP Education has been delivering the foundation programme for over 20 years on behalf of the University of Auckland. All teachers are trained and registered with the Teachers Council of New Zealand. Our delivery is based on flipped learning where students will receive and complete assigned ‘pre-learning’ video lessons and tasks before class via Blackboard, then work through them with teachers during class to deepen the knowledge gained during lesson time.

We also place great emphasis on student welfare and ensure a high standard of care. Our caring and dedicated staff are experienced in looking after the educational, practical and social needs of students. Outside the classroom, there are plenty of chances for students to have fun from sports and excursions to photography and cooking classes.

Progression Support

The Education Counsellor will offer their expertise by exploring various options with you so that you select a course that best meets your goals. Faculty members and current students at the university are regularly invited to share more about the university, courses and their experience. You will also get a glimpse of university life through campus tours and may even be able to partake in actual classes.

Students will receive assistance on their formal applications to the University of Auckland and are encouraged to start conversations with the International Managers of their faculty.

Meet Abhisek Mohanty

Currently a Director at PwC (Management Consulting)

Based out of the New York City practice, Abhisek completed the University of Auckland Certificate in Foundation Studies programme with us in 2011. In addition to gaining entry to his desired undergraduate course, the programme helped him adapt to the culture in New Zealand and set up a strong network of international students. UP Education's focus on instilling discipline and structure into the day-to-day activities of students was critical to his professional and personal maturity.

Completing the Foundation Studies programme was just the beginning for Abhisek as he progressed on to achieving his bachelor's and postgraduate degrees from the University of Auckland. He then began his career at award-winning startup, Plexure, before exploring various business and data roles at marketing agency, Digitas Affinity ID, and technology giant, Hewlett-Packard (HP). Over the last six years, he has been working at PwC in the Management Consulting team across New Zealand and Australia, and has spent the last three years in New York City working with various global retail, consumer goods, and private equity clients.

Now, as the Director of a Management Consulting team at a prestigious multinational firm, Abhisek is living proof of where the Foundation Studies programme can lead.

manaakitanga.

[ma.naa.ki.tang.a]. Māori

(n.) hospitality, kindness, generosity, support
– the process of showing respect, generosity and care for others.

Student Wellbeing

Learning to live in a new city can be hard at first.

The Māori concept of manaakitanga is heavily integrated into New Zealand culture and the University applies this concept of care equally to all international students.

New Zealand is also the only country in the world with a Student Wellbeing Strategy, underlining the value placed on student welfare.

Taking care of our students

Personal wellbeing is essential for academic and personal achievement, especially when studying in a new country. At UP Education we do everything we can to support and care for our international students.

Coping with a new culture

Adjusting to a new culture takes time. Our homestay families, tutors, welfare and pastoral care staff are always on hand to offer guidance and support. Students can also choose from a range of social, sporting, cultural and religious groups, which may help with emotional and spiritual health.

Personalised care and attention

We create a link between personal wellbeing and academic studies, supporting students to achieve their full learning potential.

Our International Centre assists students with practical and personal challenges, as well as immigration matters, visas, insurance, accommodation, and banking. It's a great place for students to access information about living and studying in New Zealand.

Sonder Student Safety app

We have partnered with Sonder, a 24/7 personal safety and wellbeing service, to support all our international students. The Sonder app is for personal devices and has a number of features, like “Track My Journey” and “Check On Me”, that will help students live and study in New Zealand with confidence – if you are walking alone at night, going on a first date, or meeting up with a stranger.

Additionally, if you are feeling stressed, anxious, lonely or simply don't know who to turn to, you can speak to Sonder's multilingual support team anytime via live chat or phone, and they can even send in-person assistance if you need it.
